Teamster Jen Mounce Awarded 2023 Civilian Professional of the Year at Vancouver Police Department

January 27, 2023

Jen Mounce began her career with the VPD in September 2007. She worked in Transcription and CPIC Support, Quality Control, and then moved to the PRIME Management Unit, first as a PRIME trainer and then as a Systems Application Specialist.

In her newest role, Jen has done exceptionally well learning and overseeing three complex systems, including creating and administering a program for record purging and retention of police records to bring the Department in line with best practice standards. She is the administrator for our new digital evidence management system that advances how VPD officers gather, manage, and disclose evidence, and also the administrator for a justice information application that provides important information regarding criminal charges and dispositions.

Jen also volunteers her time with charitable initiatives like Jeans Up for BC Children's Hospital, Pink Shirt Day, the Shoebox Project for Women of the Downtown Eastside, the backpack drive for Covenant House Vancouver, the Variety Club Children's Charity Telethon, and the Special Olympics.

For exemplifying excellence at work, and for her significant contributions to changing the way the VPD manages data and information, Jen Mounce is the Vancouver Police Department's 2023 Civilian Professional of the year.
